

Transcript 1.1: Base camp

Opening title: MISSION: RAINFOREST

The scene starts from black with the helicopter rotor blades, loud, as if heard from inside a helicopter. We see the helicopter taking off.

Aerial footage over the rainforest canopy cutting to close-ups of the flora and fauna.

Inside the helicopter we see close-ups of the team as it comes in to land.

SHOUTED CONVERSATION:

We're approaching the landing site.

OK.

Are you ready?

Bags and handy cam get dumped on the ground as the team of environmentalists jumps out of the helicopter.

SHOUTED CONVERSATION:

Go. Go. Good luck.

The team pushes its way through the undergrowth and starts setting up camp.

JON:

The camera's still on. Turn it off. We need to save power.

Someone moves to the camera and kneels down. We see his face. He reaches for the power button and the screen goes black.

The camera is switched on.

JON:

This is Jon, leader of a group of environmentalists, sent in to the rainforest to gather intelligence on Log Inc, a logging company operating illegally. We just need the proof...

OK... it's (checking watch) 1800 hours. We've just landed, not sure exactly where. There's no one around but we caught a glimpse of Log Inc's Compound as we came down. Our maps are pretty basic so we'll need to try and establish where we are.

First things first though, we need to set up a base camp. It's hot and humid so we need to find somewhere safe.

Once we've established base camp, we'll split up and an advanced team will be sent out to survey the area. I'll post more updates later...
